PETIT PARISIEN

Breakout from the colony

On the night of September the 18th, two as yet unidentified convicts escaped. From our own sources, they are still at large. Meurdrac men's relentless hunt is still on. This breakout tarnishes the reputation of the penal colony. A fortress from which none may escape, this from First Consul Napoleon Bonaparte's own mouth. Let us note that Meurdrac was appointed chief of this colony by Napoleon himself. Since the announcement of the breakout, Napoleon's mood has not improved. Has their circumstantial understanding come to an end ?

*Living the convict's life, all these years on the run, was never fun.
The hunt was on. No mistakes were allowed. Always being on guard.
I moved and changed my identity regularly.
I even put on fifteen kilos to look different.
I have had it with this life !*

*I must have worked in fifteen different trades.
I had the ability to do anything.
The underworld organized secret boxing matches.
I signed up for it.*

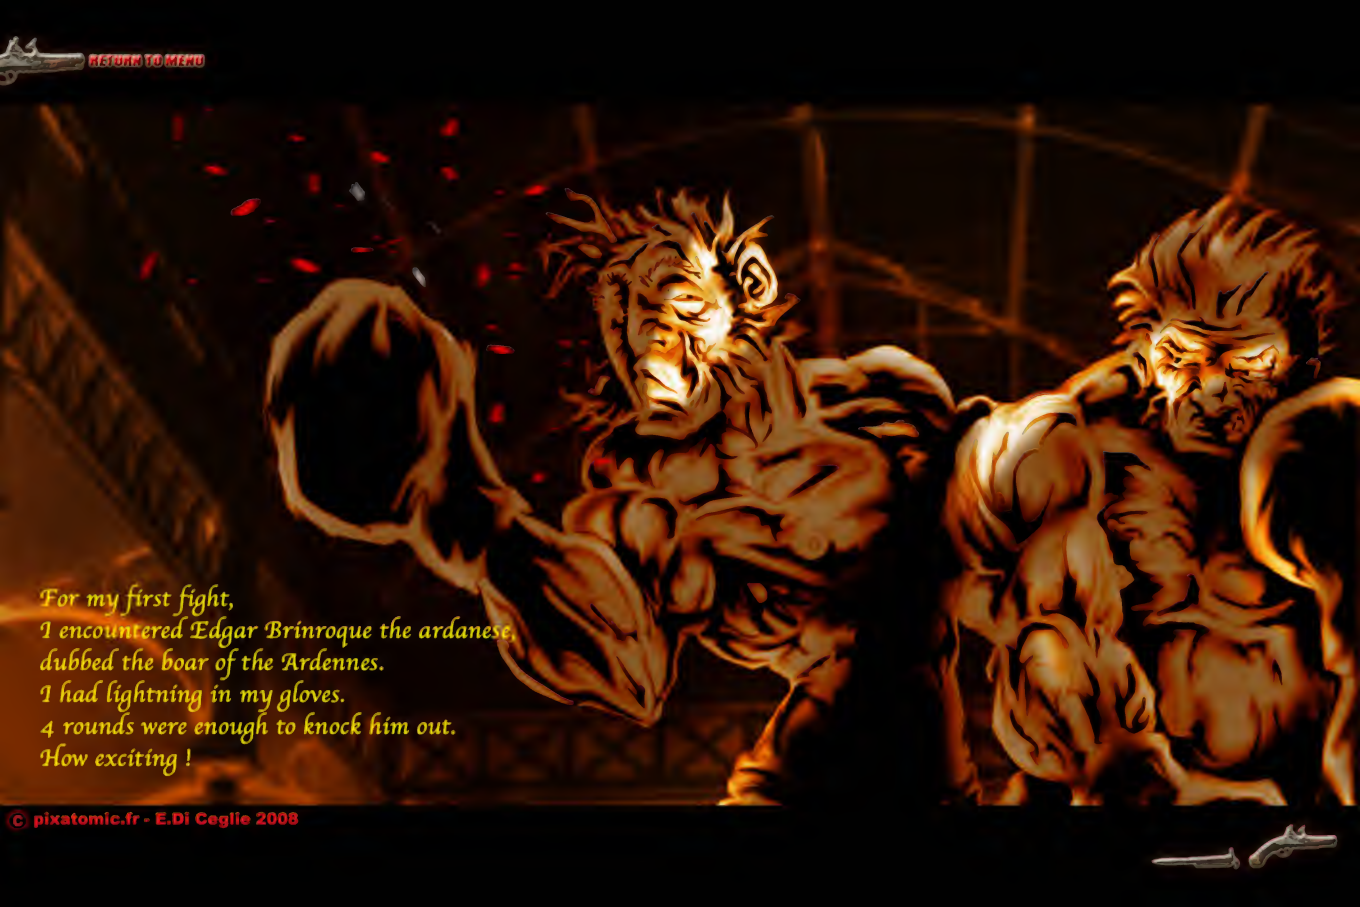

RETURN TO MENU

*The secret art of the savate bore me no secret.
A grand master had groomed me to his technique when I still lived in Arras.
I love this sport.*

*For my first fight,
I encountered Edgar Brinroque the ardanese,
dubbed the boar of the Ardennes.
I had lightning in my gloves.
4 rounds were enough to knock him out.
How exciting !*

THE BELGIAN

MONDAY 17th OCTOBER at 11 pm

*I remained undefeated for 2 years :
137 fights, 137 victories by knock out.
I went by the name the "Northerner".
Seemed sensible since i originally came from Arras !
No one was aware of my real identity.
My reputation spread to foreign countries.*

RETURN TO MENU

*The Belgian Eddy Meurken was my worst opponent.
His fists would wreck your face.
His weakness : a lack of strategy.*

RETURN TO MENU

*I earned a lot of money.
I did not solely make friends with my success.
My cover was blown wide open.
It had to happen eventually.*

*It's done ...
On an anonymous tip, the police finds me and I'm arrested.*

*I find myself in an office, the Prefect Auguste Ménard.
The prefect questions me.
My line of defense is plain : I 've become a model citizen.
I jump on the spot and offer my services.
I had an idea in mind, to become a policeman !*

Nothing less !

I'm full of arguments, my knowledge of the underworld giving me loads of arrest opportunities.
